ECONOMY IN COAL.

Fuchien Lamp Coal stands for economy in coal value. All lamp coals have a large percentage of dust which are practically waste. The dust in FUCHIEN lamp coals burns as soon as they are cast into boilers. Fuchien lamp coal burns gradually and is therefore a decided economy.

ASSASSINATION OF DR. RATHENAU.

MORE DISCUSSION IN REICHSTAG.

BERLIN, June 25.
In the Reichstag Herr Wels (majority socialist) declared that the monarchist flag of Germany had become the standard of the murderers. Herr Hergt (pan-German) declared that the German national party abhorred the murder of Dr. Rathenau but denounced the Government's measures taken in consequence. Herr Hergt was much interrupted by shouts of "Murderer" and "Hypocrite" from the left. Herr Crispian (independent socialist) declared that the old officer caste was now trying to murder their own countrymen and unless the Government dismissed the officers from the Reichwehr and police the workers would be obliged to act in self defence and answer violence with violence.

Chancellor Wirth declared that the allies in the past year had inflicted on the German government almost continual humiliations. It was impossible to keep democratic Germany alive under such conditions and the entente must forego its policy of ultimatum and dictatorship. He appealed to all to unite and destroy the present atmosphere of murder and work for the restoration of democracy. "Our enemies," he said, "are those who pour poison into the wounds of the nation. Those enemies are on the right." (loud applause)

TRIBUTE FROM LLOYD GEORGE.

LONDON, June 25.
In a speech in London Mr. Lloyd George said Herr Rathenau was one of the ablest men in Europe who was doing his best for his country in striving to restore her good relations with the countries she had wronged. He expressed his deepest horror at the outrage and hoped Germany would not suffer therefrom.

REWARD INCREASED.

BERLIN, June 25.
The Government has increased the reward from three hundred thousand to a million marks for the capture of the murderer of Herr Rathenau.

ANGLO-ITALIAN ENTENTE.

PROJECTED DISCUSSIONS IN LONDON.

LONDON, June 25.
Signor Schanzer, the Italian Foreign Minister, has arrived in London to confer with Mr. Lloyd George with regard to the near East and the basis for a closer Anglo-Italian Entente.

HERR RATHENAU.

GERMANY LOSES A MAN OF MANY PARTS.

"Chancellor Wirth" predicts Reuter in cabling the news of the assassination of Dr. Rathenau, Germany's Foreign Minister, "will find it almost impossible to replace Dr. Rathenau whose assassination may bring about the fall of the present storm-tossed administration. It will almost certainly retard the settling down of Europe."

Accounted the ablest all-round man in Germany, Dr. Rathenau is indeed a man whom it will not be found easy to replace. The Wirth Cabinet strengthened its prestige and potential power enormously by inducing Dr. Rathenau, who in private life was the president of the General Electric Company, to take the post first of Minister of Reconstruction and then of Foreign Minister.

Fifty five years old Dr. Walter Rathenau was the son of Emil Rathenau, who practically created the great German electro-technical industry. Forty years ago the elder Rathenau founded the German Edison Company, which first exploited American electrical inventions in Germany on a great scale. Within four years, Rathenau turned his company into the General Electric Corporation (Allgemeine Elektricitats-Gesellschaft), which to-day, with 350,000,000 marks capital, is the greatest single industrial concern in Germany, though it is, of course, surpassed in magnitude by heavily financed syndicates such as the Electro-Mining Concern of Hugo Stumm and the Ammonium Concern.

A few days before the outbreak of war Dr. Rathenau appeared with a whole nation's eyes on him, and he was one of the few Germans who during the war retained the reputation of the "middle" and peaceful for

FRENCH OFFICIAL ATTACKED.

INCIDENT IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, June 25.
Jean Gavard, a French official on the Reparations Commission, was attacked early in the morning outside his residence and robbed of 8,000 marks. He was seriously injured and has been sent to hospital. One assailant has been arrested.

RUSSIAN CROPS.

IMPERILLED BY RAIN.

MOSCOW, June 25.
The continuous rain has incalculably harmed the potato and vegetable crops. The success of the hay and crops in the central and northern provinces is imperilled.

HOME AGAIN.

LONDON, June 26.
The Marquis and Marchioness of Bute with their son and daughter, Lord and Lady Stewart, Brigadier and Mrs. Gubberton have arrived at Liverpool by the "Glenelg" from Montreal after a four months' pleasure tour in Guyana, Japan and the Straits Settlements.

EVEREST EXPEDITION.

FURTHER PROGRESS IMPOSSIBLE.

LONDON, June 25.
The Daily Telegraph's Calcutta correspondent learns on reliable authority that the Everest expedition leaders have decided that further progress is impossible at present owing to the weather conditions. A third attempt to reach the summit took the climbers less than 150 feet above the feet 27,200 mark previously attained. Several members of the party were badly frostbitten. It is understood that General Bruce is very reluctant to abandon the attempts but is forced to conclude that persistence will only end in useless tragedy.

COOLNESS AND COMEDY AT THE CORONET.

With its battery of exhaust, and wall fans winnowing the air, the Coronet Theatre makes an attractive refuge from the heat these hot and humid days. Lots of people will be taking advantage of it this week to see the special all-comedy programme, with Charlie Chaplin in "Pay Day" as its head, which begins at the popular picture house to-day. Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd and Larry Simon all in one programme—here indeed is mirth in full measure and running over.

a moderate peace. When Ludendorff attacked him before the post war Inquiry Commission, he reported by publishing notes of a conversation in the last war year, in which he predicted that the Ludendorffian policy of peace through final victory would lead to final defeat.

When Dr. Rathenau took up charge of the Ministry of Reconstruction, the Berlin correspondent of the "Berliner Tageblatt" wrote this about him:—
"Rathenau is undoubtedly the ablest all-round man in the German Republic. His knowledge, experience, and general culture in a dozen domains are limitless. He is a first-rate speaker, a philosopher, a political theorist, an economist, an industrial expert, an engineer and technician, a judge of the arts. In all branches he is a first-rate generalist, with a scientific knowledge of facts and a genius for their application. He has a keen sense of the greater social and economic problems of the modern world and is equipped with a profound knowledge of the history of the world."

A few days before the outbreak of war Dr. Rathenau appeared with a whole nation's eyes on him, and he was one of the few Germans who during the war retained the reputation of the "middle" and peaceful for

BRITISH OFFICERS IN CHILEAN SHIPS.

Unless some very drastic alteration be made in the Shipping Law recently passed by the Chilean Government, a very considerable number of British captains and officers now serving on the coast of Chile will find themselves out of employment. According to the new law, which was promulgated by the President in person some little time ago, the 5th of August will mark the date from which only Chilean ships commanded and officered by natives of that country will be permitted to engage in coasting trade.

The Chilean National Mercantile Marine will then automatically become part of their Naval Reserve, and can, therefore, only be manned by nationals. Although the Imperial Merchant Service Guild, who have been informed of the latest developments in this matter by their honorary agent in Valparaiso, are particularly concerned with the position of their members who are serving as officers in vessels engaged in trade on that coast, the matter will have a very far-reaching effect upon quite a number of British ships at present engaged in that part of the world.

It is well known that Chile has always been a very good friend of Britain and British subjects have been encouraged in every way to settle down in that country. The alteration in the existing state of affairs is, therefore, all the more regrettable as far as the Mercantile Marine is concerned, the men who have contributed much to its efficiency will of necessity be those who will not be able to remain in their employment when the new regime is put into operation.

COL JOHN WARD.

OFFICERS WHO WANTED TO "SACK" HIM.

An extraordinary instance of the Cabinet intervening to keep a Member of Parliament in his command in the Army was revealed in the House of Commons when Lt.-Col. John Ward M.P. for "Stoke-on-Trent," treated members to a moment of autobiography.

Col. Ward, who served as a private soldier in Egypt in the eighties, came into Parliament many years ago as "the Navvies' M.P." He was a Liberal-Labour member. In the war he raised five labour battalions and became colonel of the 25th Middlesex Regiment serving among other places, in Siberia.

Speaking on a proposal to give Army officers an appeal to "an independent tribunal" in cases of disciplinary action Colonel Ward said: "I have only to mention my own case. Without any charge of military incapacity, but only on the ground of the class to which I belong, I should have had to go. If it had not been that I held such a position in the public life of the country that those above me could not break me and that I had the Cabinet to appeal to, I should never have had any career in the Army, not even during the war, badly as men were wanted."

"There is actually a Cabinet Minister who kept me in the Army: or else old-fashioned officers would have had me out and never given me the ghost of a chance."

But though he had been dependent on an outside tribunal in this instance another five or six years in the Army had convinced him that if a commanding officer could not sometimes deal with a case at once, the position would be hopeless.

SINGAPORE, MONDAY, JUNE 26, 1932.

SUN YAT-CHANG.

Unable to distinguish (with any certainty) between the moral character of the Chinese who appear on the surface of the existing condition of civil war, unable, that is to say, to decide which of the contending leaders is "in the right," and which "in the wrong," we Europeans are apt to condemn the whole thing. That is human impatience; it is not judgment. Nor is it judgment to take sides, so far as that goes. How can we outsiders ever feel sure that the cause of A is the best one, or the motives of B the purest, or the actions of C the most patriotic and expedient? We cannot pretend to do it. Even in our own controversies we are liable to error. How much more so in approaching the bewildering struggle of Chinese politics! Occasionally it is possible to detect, in their own utterances, that the Chinese themselves are no more capable of sound judgment than we are. Where our ignorance makes us doubt, their passion makes them ignorant. When Sun Yat-sen says, "when anyone begins to use force it is a law to civilise," we are moved to suspect a noble and sincere mind.

voicing its clear judgment. When in almost the same breath he adds, "the bombardment of Canton was my protest against the events of the night before, and the upholding of righteousness," we perceive without hesitation that his mind is clouded, that it is not concentrated on an ultimate principle and issue, that it is not even logical. So far as logic is concerned, he has committed himself to the dictum that in order to register a protest one may cause a loss to civilization, and, in short, do wrong in the name and cause of righteousness. Other men have said so before him, so that we have the idea (generally described as "Jesuitical") of doing evil that good may come. In all such instances, whoever proposes it, whenever and in any circumstances whatsoever, we may look confidently for the self that shakes the wavering balance. However plausibly it be worded, it may be reduced to, "I did so because I wished to do so," and was irresistibly drawn to do so." The deed proceeds, the calculated justification. But, harking back to where we began, let there be no harsh judgments. Both Chan and Sun, now so diametrically opposed, may both be sincere patriots. Wherever and whenever men contend, there is to be found, by the dispassionate observer, a certain solidarity or unanimity among them. They are all solid and unanimous for the Right. Disparity only enters when their vision differs. They are not, as they always all profess, fighting for the Right, but for some form of Right—their own they see. Yet clearly, it is to the utmost now to concede this much to Sun, since he talked for publication, "They" (his original northern opponents) now see the Right as he saw and saw it in the restoration of the Constitution and the recovery of its pedigree.

Is this champion of righteousness then satisfied? No. He complains that "they want to reap all the advantages and eliminate us, who have fought for so long for these things." Psychologically, these words are illuminating. In opening his mouth he has put his foot in it, so far as our fallible judgment goes. More than that we will not say; less we could not have said. Sun Yat-ichabod.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

By the a.s. "Kwong" yesterday Mr. and Mrs. W. Budge, of Taikeo, sailed for Singapore where they are to join the a.s. "Charon" en-route for Australia.

Mr. J. E. H. Bibby who has been playing with the Hongkong Polo team at Shanghai is sailing by the a.s. "Taiyo Maru" for San Francisco on his way to England. He is expected back in about 6 weeks' time.

A radio message from Rangoon states—"thorough search in vicinity of lat. 15° 54' N. and longitude 95° 02' E. (position of mud volcano reported by mist of a.s. "Elma") failed to show alteration in soundings shown on chart."

The B.N. Borneo Herald learns that the Governor of B.N. Borneo and Mrs. Pearson will probably leave Jesselton on or about July 10 for Sandakan, where they will be in residence till they leave for England via America, towards the end of August.

A burglary was committed early yesterday morning at 5, Ainal Villas, Austin Avenue, Kowloon, the residence of Miss J. A. Tarrant. Hearing the noise of a door being opened and that Miss Tarrant's alarm woke and saw the form of a man disappearing through a door. Miss Tarrant was aroused and blew a police whistle. Later in the morning a man was arrested in connection with the affair.

One of the reasons that leads me to reject the evidence is that he has an inaccurate type of mind. No idea has a definite outline for him. Apart from his oral evidence, which shows this clearly, his letters also are a sufficient indication of this fact. His memory is weak and he has very small power of analytical reasoning. He was led into self-contradiction by the cross-examining counsel, and was so mainly because he did not quickly understand plain speech. The second reason is that I have found in him a tendency to create for himself facts which have no objective existence in order to support a proposition once adopted by his mind. This tendency is in part unconscious and involuntary; in part, also, it is a result of a willingness to create such facts. He is

WANTING IN CERTAIN SCRUPLES. In something akin to intellectual honesty. To cite one instance which impressed me. He was agent for the Wah Ha S.S. Company and therefore saw nothing irregular in producing for use in evidence a letter of appointment of Messrs Carroll Bros. as agents of the Wah Ha S.S. Company, dated 24th September, 1920, which letter was in fact to his knowledge written six months later. One who, in his legal proceedings, is able with a clear conscience to make such a misrepresentation of fact cannot expect to find his credit as a witness unaffected. In this case I think that Mr. A. H. Carroll has retained the very dimmest recollection of what happened. As to the date of his first interview with the defendant and as to the denial of the defendant's presence in Mr. Blake's office on the 2nd October, I believe him to be honestly mistaken. He has convinced himself that the defendant was at all material times a partner in the Wah Ha S.S. Company and around this conviction he has built the assurance of partnership to which he deposed, but which I am satisfied were not in fact given. I regret very much that he committed himself in his evidence to following the statement made in his counsel's opening of this case: "that except for signing four letters and the charter party he knew practically nothing of Tang in this business. When he spoke he was merely the mouthpiece of the defendant." This statement, on cross-examination, was found to be untenable. Even more do I regret that he should have adopted for use in this case a memorandum (prepared by Mr. Pidgeon) found in his desk basket which was evidently not what Mr. Pidgeon declared it to be. Whenever Mr. Carroll's evidence conflicted in any way with his (the Judge's) statement of fact, it must be understood that he had rejected it.

The committee appointed by the Government of India to examine the present system of seamen recruitment and to recommend reforms in the methods has reported urging the total abolition of the existing gravely abused practice of engaging seamen through licensed or private brokers. The committee recommend that entirely a new system be set up under which the duties at present performed by the brokers should be entrusted to the Employment Bureau set up both in Calcutta and Bombay. They observe that the employment offices should be maintained by a State organisation, in case these could not be organised and maintained by representative associations of ship-owners and seamen in co-operation.

"WOLLOWRA" JUDGMENT.

WIN FOR DEFENDANT.

JUDGE COMMENTS ON WITNESSES.

Deciding that Li Hy-san was not a partner in the Wah Ha S.S. Co., the Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice Wood, entered judgment for the defendant in the Wollowra charter party case. His Lordship delivered a very lengthy judgment in which he commented freely on the witnesses.

His Lordship said that both Mr. A. H. Carroll and Mr. W. J. Carroll were "bad" witnesses in the sense in which doctors speak of good and bad patients. The principal witness in the plaintiff's case was Mr. A. H. Carroll. It had been put to him (his Lordship) that if he found against the plaintiff upon that part of the issue which related to "holding out," he must be satisfied that Mr. A. H. Carroll had been guilty of wilful perjury. "It would be evident," the Puisne Judge continued, "from the resume of fact already given, that in my view, on the main issues of fact, the evidence given by Mr. A. H. Carroll is incorrect. I do not, therefore, wish to accuse him of concocting for this trial a story which he recognises to be wholly false. He has told the truth on one or two matters where it might have been in his interest to conceal the facts. Nevertheless, I do not accept his evidence and refuse to accept it principally on two grounds. I may say at once that it is not one of those grounds that his firm has been shown to have a financial interest in the plaintiffs' success on this issue. That suggestion has been made; but I definitely do not accept it.

One of the reasons that leads me to reject the evidence is that he has an inaccurate type of mind. No idea has a definite outline for him. Apart from his oral evidence, which shows this clearly, his letters also are a sufficient indication of this fact. His memory is weak and he has very small power of analytical reasoning. He was led into self-contradiction by the cross-examining counsel, and was so mainly because he did not quickly understand plain speech. The second reason is that I have found in him a tendency to create for himself facts which have no objective existence in order to support a proposition once adopted by his mind. This tendency is in part unconscious and involuntary; in part, also, it is a result of a willingness to create such facts. He is

WANTING IN CERTAIN SCRUPLES. In something akin to intellectual honesty. To cite one instance which impressed me. He was agent for the Wah Ha S.S. Company and therefore saw nothing irregular in producing for use in evidence a letter of appointment of Messrs Carroll Bros. as agents of the Wah Ha S.S. Company, dated 24th September, 1920, which letter was in fact to his knowledge written six months later. One who, in his legal proceedings, is able with a clear conscience to make such a misrepresentation of fact cannot expect to find his credit as a witness unaffected. In this case I think that Mr. A. H. Carroll has retained the very dimmest recollection of what happened. As to the date of his first interview with the defendant and as to the denial of the defendant's presence in Mr. Blake's office on the 2nd October, I believe him to be honestly mistaken. He has convinced himself that the defendant was at all material times a partner in the Wah Ha S.S. Company and around this conviction he has built the assurance of partnership to which he deposed, but which I am satisfied were not in fact given. I regret very much that he committed himself in his evidence to following the statement made in his counsel's opening of this case: "that except for signing four letters and the charter party he knew practically nothing of Tang in this business. When he spoke he was merely the mouthpiece of the defendant." This statement, on cross-examination, was found to be untenable. Even more do I regret that he should have adopted for use in this case a memorandum (prepared by Mr. Pidgeon) found in his desk basket which was evidently not what Mr. Pidgeon declared it to be. Whenever Mr. Carroll's evidence conflicted in any way with his (the Judge's) statement of fact, it must be understood that he had rejected it.

THE THIRD QUESTION THEN ARISES: "Has defendant on any other date prior to the cancellation of the charter party (18th January, 1921) in fact been a partner in the Wah Ha S.S. Company?" This question has to be investigated with caution. It is for the purpose of dealing with this enquiry by itself that in discussing the credibility of the defendant as a witness I have reserved all comment on his general denial of partnership. It has been strongly urged to me for the plaintiffs that any jury with the admissions in the defendant's case before them would be driven irresistibly to the conclusion that the defendant was a partner in the chartering firm. The plaintiffs' counsel has accepted the burden of proof and has appealed for a verdict in his favour on the evidence as a whole. The facts on which the plaintiffs are entitled to rely are the following: The defendant was the confidential adviser of Mr. Tang King-po both in his original contract with the first firm of charterers (the Wah Ha S.S. Company) and in his endeavour to oust two partners from that firm and take over the charter.

In support of Mr. Tang King-po's project on the 26th September 1920 he promised to advance up to $60,000 on the security of the ship, the engagement of which he would not have entered except for his desire to assist Mr. Tang's undertaking by placing the owners in funds to meet their dock bills. He placed the credit of the Lai Cheung Lung piece goods firm—a firm under his control—at the disposal of the new charterers to win for them the confidence of foreign buyers. He attended at Mr. Blake's office on the 2nd October when the contract to grant a charter to Mr. Tang King-po and Mr. Ho Tat-sam was recorded and instructions were given for the formation of the private limited company designed to take over the charter. In conversation on this occasion he mentioned the likelihood of his brother, Mr. Li Cheuk, taking shares in the limited company and participating in its directorate. He assigned his brother as co-proprietor to the ship. He accepted from Mr. Tang King-po custody of the major part of the money received by him the Wah

Ha S.S. Company's account for $120,000. He made use of the money so entrusted to him as his own money, paying no interest for this accommodation to Mr. Tang King-po. He gave a dinner party to persons concerned in the adventure before the ship sailed. When on the 13th October the Hongkong Government prohibited the fulfilment of the passage contract in respect of the ship he facilitated the transfer of the passengers to Macao. On the arrest of the ship he assisted financially to obtain her release. Before the ship sailed he had a confidential interview with Mr. Smith, the purser, about the voyage. He made financial arrangements for the ship both at Nagasaki and Honolulu. He kept himself informed by cable of the progress of the ship. It has also been shown that on the dates when the defendant made payment assigned to his mortgage ($40,000 on 14th October and $5,000 on 25th October) his credit on current account with the Banque de l'Indo Chine, in which account he had placed monies received from Mr. Tang King-po, stood very little higher than the amount in fact drawn upon it.

These facts constitute formidable evidence of partnership, while individually they may be easily explained. Their cumulative effect is to show a most intimate connection with the concern of the charterers. In my opinion they form a chain of proof sufficiently strong to transfer the onus on this part of the issue from the plaintiffs to the defendant. The defendant meets the situation in this way. He denies partnership on oath. He produces a personal account showing all his dealings with "Wah Ha Account" money between himself and Mr. Tang King-po, an account the correctness and authenticity of which has been in no way questioned. He produces also as a separate item his own independent account of money lent by himself to the owners on the mortgage of the ship, on which account also no doubt has been thrown. He has shown to my satisfaction by his evidence relating to the 13th October and by the correspondence bearing that date which is in evidence that the mortgage was his individual investment. All cheques drawn by him in connection with this ship (except the cheque of the 14th October in respect of the mortgage) were drawn in favour not of the owners' agents but of Mr. Tang King-po, and were thus notice to the owners' agents that the defendant disassociated himself from this partnership. With reference to his use of the money entrusted to him he has at all material times eight times the amount "at call" to his own credit elsewhere in sound banks. He does not deny lending assistance in the way stated to the adventure, but he stated that Mr. Tang King-po had been his friend and confidential employee for ten years and that now on the eve of his own retirement from commercial life he wished to help Mr. Tang King-po to launch out in this matter independently. He remarks that he has never been accused of partnership with the first firm of charterers, though he was then also ready to assist Mr. Tang King-po (apart from meeting the owners' dock bill) on the same lines.

THE FINDING.
He claims to be honest in this matter not merely by his friendship for Mr. Tang King-po but also by his interest in the affairs of his brother, Mr. Li Cheuk, who was to be concerned in the limited liability company with the charterers and sail on the voyage. His interest was also personal because he had lent money to the owners on security of the ship and also because the Lai Lung firm which he controlled, though he was not a partner in it) received one per cent commission on its collections for the charterers (in return for this agency work and its guarantee to the public of the good faith of the charterers), and finally because he himself was interested or hoped to be interested in Cuban trade.

His denial of partnership was not made for the first time in this court. It was made first in the presence of Mr. Blake and Mr. A. H. Carroll on the 2nd October. After consideration I have decided to accept his denial of partnership. My judgment in this issue is therefore for the defendant. Costs to follow the event."

Mr. Eldon Potter (instructed by Messrs. Deacon, Looker, Deacon and Hamilton) was for the plaintiffs, Mr. F. C. Jenkin (instructed by Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist) for Li Hy-san, and Mr. C. G. Alabaster watched the case on behalf of the Wah Ha S.S. Company.

PENANG WILL CASE.

A DISPUTED DOCUMENT.

The Penang will case which first came before the Court in November last again occupied the attention of the Chief Justice, Sir William Rees Davis in the Supreme Court yesterday when Mr. Potter for the plaintiff continued his address.

Some difference of opinion arose between counsel regarding a photograph of the Penang Register, Mr. Potter claiming that this document stood unchallenged.

Mr. Brutton appearing on the other side disputed this and said they had challenged the document from its very inception.

Mr. Brutton mentioned three documents relating to the Register, one in which parents' names were not shown, one in which the names appeared, and the photograph. Mr. Brutton's contention was that the documents were correct records of the Register on the dates on which they were made.

Mr. Potter asked whether the other side said the register was faked or accused them of forgery.

Mr. Alabaster said that Mr. Potter had time after time tried to tempt them to make the charge of forgery. Their (defendants) case was that the boy never died and they had to prove no more than that. It was the other side who introduced the alleged death certificate and it was for them to prove it. It was part of defendant's case to say that they charged the other side with forgery, they simply put them to the proof. They charged them with forgery.

Observing that he would have to start from the beginning again Mr. Potter proceeded with his address.

"DIDN'T REMEMBER."

BLAKE FIER INCIDENT.

An incident that occurred on Blake Pier last night was investigated by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Police Court this morning when John Ginner, an American sailor from the s.s. "Radnor" was charged with having assaulted an Indian constable.

When asked to plead he said: I don't know how it happened: I not sure what was the trouble. Any way when the two men brought me to the station, each holding me by an arm, one of them hit me on the jaw. Are the police allowed to do that? You can see my cheek it is still swollen.

Evidence was given by the complainant, the constable, to the effect that on the previous night at 11-30 o'clock whilst he was selling seat tickets on the pier the defendant came up and said "Come here you b— Indian dog." Defendant then told him to get off the pier. The complainant tried to explain that he was on duty there. Without any further ado the sailor struck him a blow on the head, knocking off his turban. When he stooped down to retrieve the turban the defendant caught him by the neck and pressed him down on to the pier. The complainant tried to blow his whistle but defendant caught it and threw it into the harbour. With difficulty the man was brought to the station. He was slightly drunk when arrested.

Corroborative evidence was given by another Indian constable who assisted the complainant to bring the man to the Police Station.

When asked if he had any question to put the defendant said: To tell the truth, I don't recollect anything about it. I can remember being hit on the jaw.

The Magistrate ordered the defendant to pay a fine of $2 and in addition pay $5 compensation for the loss of the police whistle and damage to the complainant's watch.

SUMMARY COURT.

A PAPER DEAL.

JAPANESE FIRM SUCCESSFUL.

The Fuji Trading Company, paper merchants of Chater Road sued the Chan Hing firm in the Summary Court this morning. Before the Police Judge Mr. Justice Wood, for $397.00, the balance due on a contract under which defendants agreed to purchase 20 bales of paper at a total cost of $1794.

Mr. Nash appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Watson represented the defendant.

Opening the case Mr. Nash said the contract was made on May 2nd 1921. The defendant asked for two delivery orders, which were made out. On May 4 defendant informed plaintiff that the delivery orders had been lost and asking for two others. The old orders were cancelled and two new delivery orders were made out. Defendants had taken delivery of ten bales and plaintiffs believed that the remaining bales were in the godown.

His Lordship asked what the dispute was.

Mr. Watson said defendants contracted to buy ten bales and they had taken delivery of them. They knew nothing of the other ten bales.

The manager of plaintiff firm gave evidence in support of the claim and in cross-examination denied that defendant only bought ten bales of paper.

Defendant in the box said that he ordered twenty bales of paper about April 1921. He wanted to take delivery but plaintiffs could not deliver. Defendant complained to the broker who told him to wait till the next consignment. He pressed plaintiffs for delivery and later the goods arrived. Defendant said that he did not want them but plaintiff asked him to take delivery. Subsequently he agreed to take ten bales and two delivery orders for ten bales each were sent.

He told his foki to take one of the delivery orders back.

Judgment was given for plaintiffs.

ASSASSINATION OF THE GERMAN FOREIGN MINISTER.

BERLIN, June 24th.
Herr Rathenau, the Foreign Minister, while motoring to the Foreign Office this morning was shot at with revolvers by two persons slowly moving ahead and was killed on the spot. The assassins then went off at full speed and escaped.

A lady accompanied Herr Rathenau when he left his house. Five minutes later the car returned with his corpse. The assassins who escaped fired six shots and threw a bomb. The bullet passed into Herr Rathenau's mouth.

The scene of the crime was an unfrequented spot at the corner of Koenigsplatz and Eberstadtstrasse.

Police in motorcars and on bicycles are scouring Berlin in pursuit of the assassins.

The assassination was undoubtedly political and emphasises the seriousness of the warnings of a coup d'état on June 23rd mentioned in a cable on the 10th.

The Cabinet met immediately to consider measures to protect the Republic.

At a meeting of the Prussian Diet in the afternoon Herr Mayer (a Socialist) in a speech said: "Herrlich, von der Tann, Schlosser, Reichert and von Reichenberger arrived in Berlin yesterday. Rathenau was assassinated today. This is counter-revolution."

There were shouts on the extreme left of: "out with murderers."

LATER.
The news of the assassination of Herr Rathenau who in business life was manager of the Allgemeine Elektricitäts-Gesellschaft, led to stormy scenes in the Reichstag buildings. Socialists at a committee meeting jumped up and accused the Nationalist leader, Heffrich, of being the assassin and threatened to pounce upon him. The latter hastily left the building.

The outbreak was due to Heffrich yesterday, vituperatively criticizing the Government's reparations policy, and particularly Herr Rathenau.

The murder evoked angry recriminations in the Reichstag lobby between deputies.

BERLIN, June 24th.
Herr Rathenau is regarded as the victim of the beginning of internal convulsions in Germany, where there has been a growth of the monarchist intrigues.

Reports of a great revolutionary movement among the Republic are widely current, and it is believed that the murderers belong to one of the numerous secret political societies composed of ex-officers.

Herr Rathenau's political position has weakened since the Rapallo treaty with the Bolsheviks, whilst his view that Germany should make a real effort to fulfil the Treaty of Versailles, incurred the bitter criticism of the more chauvinistic sections. The general opinion is that Chancellor Wirth will find it almost impossible to replace Herr Rathenau, whose assassination may bring about the fall of the present storm-tossed administration, and it almost certainly will retard the settling down of Europe.

The entire Cabinet was present in the Reichstag this afternoon. Herr Heffrich, on entering, was assailed with furious cries of murder. Communists and Socialists, advancing on the conservative benches, shouted "out with the murderer."

Herr Wirth, when endeavouring to quieten the pandemonium, was greeted with cries of "you will be the next."

Herr Loebbe, the President, in eventually restoring order, passionately declared that the murderers were supported by an organisation of murderers. Cries from the left of "long live the Republic" greeted a conclusive speech.

BERLIN, June 24th.
The left parties in the Reichstag are holding a pro-Republican mass demonstration today.

The Government has offered a reward of 200,000 marks for the capture of the murderers and has forbidden the regimental pan-German mid-summer-day celebrations.

President Ebert has proclaimed a state emergency and the establishment of special courts to try political offences throughout Germany.

Herr Wirth paid a tribute to Herr Rathenau's work at the Genoa Conference, and declared that the task of strengthening the Republic would not be suspended by his death. He said a criminal agitation is being carried on from Koenigsberg to Constance and matters could not go on as they had done hitherto.

Amidst tremendous applause he called on all those having the interest of freedom at heart to rally to the defence of the fatherland.

Herr Dittmann (Socialist) stated that his party had been reliably informed that Herr Rathenau's murder was to be the signal for the monarchist and militarist elements to rise against the Republic and he begged the house to take heed.

BERLIN, June 25th.
Strict measures, which will strongly affect monarchist-militarist activities, are set forth in a presidential decree.

The decree provides for the prohibition of meetings, processions or propaganda, which may incite the destruction of the Republic.

Heavy penalties are laid down against seditious-mongers, and for violence against Ministers or Republican Associations.

The decree lays down that the anti-Republican arrangements planned for June 26th to discuss the acceptance of the Peace Treaty, may be forbidden.

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC IN THE CAPE.

CAPETOWN, June 24th.
Parliament did not sit last night owing to the number of members suffering from influenza.

The outbreak is widespread in the City and the Cape Peninsula, but there are few fatal cases.

LENIN'S ILLNESS SERIOUS.

MOSCOW, June 24th.
Dr. Vandervelde has returned from Moscow, and has confirmed the report that M. Lenin is most seriously ill.
